

Lindsay Cordery-Bruce

If you chopped me in half, you would see that the Third Sector runs all the way through, like a stick of rock. In fact it's hard to recall a time when I wasn't involved in some form of volunteering, campaigning, charity work or community activism.

I have served as a proud trustee for WCVA for the last six years and I am keen to embark on my final term. I currently Chair two funding panels for WCVA and serve as the board safeguarding lead. I hope to be re-appointed because I don't feel like I've finished yet.

In my day job, I am the CEO of The Wallich homelessness charity, with a multi award winning team of 450 staff and a budget exceeding £15ml a year. In both my professional and volunteering roles I am immersed in charity governance, strategic planning, performance management, financial leadership and other related fun things. The weird thing is that I really love it. Why vote for me? Because I bring realism, innovation, mischief and more passion than you can shake a stick at.
