

Sana Shaikh

Why should WCVA's members vote for me to be a Trustee?

I am passionate about working with voluntary organisations because I believe in the power of people coming together to create real change. My journey began in public health, where I saw firsthand the difference that committed communities and organisations can make, especially for those who are most vulnerable.

As a Trustee at Learning Disability Wales and a Health and Safety Officer with EYST Wales, I've been on the front lines, working closely with diverse groups to address pressing social challenges. I understand the dedication, passion, and hard work that it takes to make a meaningful impact. I know that together, we can achieve so much more than we can alone.

I want to bring this experience and energy to the WCVA Board, to help us all make a bigger difference together. I believe in WCVA's mission to build a diverse and resilient voluntary sector, and I am committed to being a voice for all its members - ensuring that we're ready for whatever challenges lie ahead.

If you vote for me, you are voting for someone who will listen, advocate, and work alongside you to build a stronger, more inclusive future for all our communities in Wales.